Coronavirus (COVID-19) Update

The rapid spread of the Coronavirus and subsequent necessary actions taken by the federal and local governments have dramatically impacted us during the past few days. Satco has taken progressive steps during the past few weeks to do our part to minimize the risk within our organization.

Within certain recent state mandates to close businesses, there are industries and services which are identified as essential. Hardware stores and electrical related businesses are considered essential as well as the companies whose products and warehousing supply them. Satco Products is considered essential as it relates to these categories and will maintain a minimum number of employees in our facilities to service these business' needs during this challenging time.

In consideration of the above, we will endeavor to service our customers' needs with our limited resources available during this period due to our reduced on-site staffing and employees working from home. We believe that the demand for our products for use in the many temporary medical and related facilities that are being erected will increase significantly over the next several weeks and we would like to focus our resources on serving those needs as much as possible.

We are asking our customers to restrict their orders to essential materials only so we can service the maximum number of customers possible. For orders being placed for shipments to job sites, please assist by verifying that the ship to location is open and operational.

The Satco family is working together to combat this global health threat and do our part to assist when and where possible. I would personally like to thank all the Satco employees who have banded together and enabled us to respond to this crisis in the most meaningful way. We will continue to monitor and assess the situation and provide updates as deemed necessary.

Stay safe and healthy,

Bill Gildin
President
